Many of us have wounds that we have not been touched whether they are Emotional, spiritual, physical or deeply traumatized soul wounds. some of these wounds were sustained during our childhood stages and some were during our adolescent years and even in some in our adulthood years. we just bandaged them up not wanting to face them. believing the wounds will just heal and go away all by themselves. like it is just a dream and one day you will wake up from a bad dream. sometimes these wounds are so deeply rooted it is hard to get to them. which now leaves us looking for healing beyond ourselves which then requires a process that involves supernatural healing. and that can only happen through Jesus Christ. by his stripes we are healed.

I believe this book will help those that have broken wounds they have not touched on and need to be addressed to release and begin their healing process. we cannot be completely at peace in our soul or set free from daily struggles and trauma we sustained until we face them.
